

Uma Resort, Paro

The 5 star resort is uniquely located on a pine covered hillside close to Paro, the country's cultural heart. The 29 room Uma Paro is surrounded by orchards, valleys and terraced mountains. It may lie in a hidden Himalayan kingdom, however when it comes to detail guests used to the highest standards of luxury will feel at home. Built by traditionally trained Bhutanese artisans the hotel is infused with clean lined modernism whilst maintaining the feel of a Bhutanese village melding into the Blue Pine forest on the cliffs above. Watch the moon rise and the sun set and be moved by the uplifting sense of quiet.

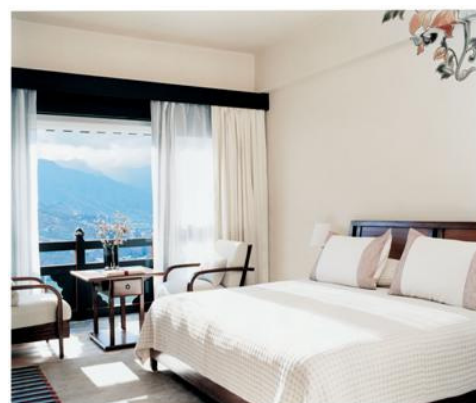

The retreat facilities include, 4 spa treatment rooms - the treatments offered are Asian inspired holistic therapies, yoga pavilion, steam rooms, hydro pool, hot stone bath house, gym and indoor pool with outdoor sundeck. Business centre with library and internet service and a conference meeting room for 16 people. The restaurant 'Bukhari' is housed in a circular pavilion set among tall pine trees with floor to ceiling windows and a bukhari fireplace at its centre and serves traditional Bhutanese & Indian cuisine. Guests can also dine beside the pool or at the bar, and for those wishing total privacy in room dining is available.

The Uma Paro's main building formally the home of a Bhutanese nobleman, forms the visual focus of the resort. Peach flowering climbing roses decorate the walls. The materials used within the Uma resort include stone wood and tiles, handcrafted using age old techniques combined with Azaleas, Rhododendrons, Camellias and Hydrangeas giving the resort an organic unstructured sensibility. The Bhutanese style is strongly felt in the timbers darkened by smoke from wood fires, and white walls vividly hand painted by local artists.

Rooms & Rates:

All 20 rooms and 9 villas are built to maximize forest, mountains or valley views. The nine deluxe double rooms are 25sq metres, featuring large, oversized bathrooms and separate showers. The nine superior doubles have the same facilities but are larger in size and six also have private balconies with views up the Paro valley. There are two suites both with separate sitting, dining and study areas, while the eight one-bedroom villa's enjoy a private spa and courtyard. The principal two-bedroom villa occupies 300sq metres, with an open fire, rock tub and courtyard.

Guest rooms are decorated with bedcovers in natural Indian cottons and have been handstitched with striped motifs and Bhutanese colours, the handwoven rugs are sourced from nearby Nepal. In room facilities include 25" flat screen TV's, DVD players, an electric personal safe, yoga mats and mini bars.
